Royal Academy of Music

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT.

A Junior Department of the Academy exists with the object of providing sound and suitable instruction for pupils who are too young to be admitted as ordinary students, and whose time is chiefly occupied with their general education.

Intending pupils must be under sixteen years of age, and care will be taken to place them under teachers who have special experience in the teaching of young children.

As it is desirable to interfere as little as possible with a pupil's general education, every effort will be made to arrange lessons and classes to meet individual requirements.

The inclusive fee of £7 7s. 0d. per term includes a Principal Study, Elements of Music, and Aural Training.

The Prospectus, giving full particulars of the Course of Study, Fees, and Regulations, can be obtained on application.

J. A. CREIGHTON,

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY:

At the opening of the Opera, Tamino, an Egyptian prince, is seen in mortal combat with a serpent; his cries of terror bring three ladies on the scene, who slay the serpent and comfort Tamino, who has fainted. These ladies consider the young prince as likely to aid their mistress, the Queen of Night, to recover her daughter, whom she has lost; they show him a miniature of the princess, of whom he immediately becomes enamoured, vowing to become her champion. For his mission he is endowed with a magic flute which will keep him safe in every danger (for it has power to soften all hearts towards him), three Genii or boys, to guide him to his destination and enlighten him with wise counsels, and a garrulous bird-catcher is assigned to him for a servant. Thus this much-guarded hero proceeds to the abode of the high priest Sarastro, who has abducted Pamina from her mother's supposed evil influence, and destines her to the service of the Temple. Conducted to its gates by the three protecting Genii, and being refused admittance, Tamino holds a lengthy colloquy with a nameless priest, from whom he ascertains that Pamina is still living. The chattering servant, Papageno, meanwhile has effected an entrance and persuaded Pamina to escape with him, and seek Tamino (whom she has not yet seen). They fly, but are overtaken and bound in fetters by Monostatos, a false Moor, under whose guardianship Sarastro has placed Pamina. The chief intelligence of the piece, Sarastro, now comes on the scene; he chastises Monostatos, and decrees that the lovers shall undergo a course of probation in the sanctuary.

In the second Act the ordeal of silence is imposed on Tamino; Pamina speaks to him in vain, and imagines him to be estranged; her mother then works on her feelings to kill Sarastro with a dagger. In Act 3 Pamina loses her reason for a short time, the lovers go through what are called the ordeals of fire and of water, that is to say, they walk through what may be supposed an abstract of those elements during a short march played by Tamino on the magic flute, in order that the trial may be performed with safety. After this the triumph of the lovers is proclaimed, the kingdom of darkness extinguished, and wisdom and joy reign upon earth.

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY:

ACT I.—Scene I.

As the curtain rises, Falstaff and his two rascally factotums, Bardolph and Pistol, are discovered drinking. Dr. Caius, an excitable French doctor, rushes in protesting that they had made him drunk the previous evening, and that Bardolph and Pistol had picked his pockets. Both deny the allegations, and Falstaff thereupon dismisses Caius with a patronising wave of the hand. Falstaff now tells his confederates how he has lost his heart to Mrs. Ford (Alice) and Mrs. Page (Meg), and commands them to take a love-letter to each. They both refuse—Bardolph on the score that his "honour" prevents his doing so. Falstaff summons the page-boy to deliver the letters, then rates Bardolph and Pistol for daring to have a sense of "honour" when he can "hardly keep his own untainted." Finally he dismisses them from his service, driving them from the room with a broom.

Scene II.

Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Page laughingly relate to Nannetta and Dame Quickly how they have received identical letters from Falstaff. The four of them go off deciding to punish Falstaff by playing a trick on him. Nannetta and Fenton, in love with one another, then meet and sing a playful love duet until interrupted by the return of the others, and again later on by the entry of Ford who is accompanied by Dr. Caius, Bardolph and Pistol. Ford is informed that Falstaff is trying to win his wife's affections. It is agreed that Ford, who is unknown to Falstaff, shall visit the latter under the name of "Brook" in order to inveigle Falstaff into a thoroughly compromising situation. The four women return, and it is settled that Dame Quickly shall go to Falstaff on the following day to arrange meetings between him, Alice and Meg. The curtain descends on their hilarious laughter as they picture to themselves the success that will attend their plotting against the "wicked old Knight."

ACT II.—Scene I.

Bardolph and Pistol return penitent to Falstaff but are dismissed with a wave of the hand. Dame Quickly enters, telling Falstaff that Alice is expecting him at Ford's house "from eleven till one"—at which time Ford will be absent from home. He gives her money, arranging to be there at the time stated. Bardolph rushes in announcing the arrival of "a certain Master Brook" (Ford) who is duly admitted. Ford tells Falstaff that he is very much in love with a Mrs. Ford, but that she is so austere and distant that he has no hope of winning her. Would Falstaff, with all the "courtly grace" that he possesses, win her for him, then, once having had her affections won over, she might perhaps relent towards himself? Falstaff swallows the plausible tale, takes the bag of gold offered by Ford for his services, and with supreme self-satisfaction, announces that Alice has already "consented to yield to his embraces." Ford, knowing nothing of what Alice has jokingly arranged, is thunderstruck, believing his wife to be faithless. Falstaff goes out to "don braver garments" and Ford is left alone. He works himself into a frenzy of jealousy, and plots how he will "waylay" Falstaff, "flay him" and then "slay him"—Falstaff returns and lightheartedly asks Ford to take the air with him as he goes on his way to meet Alice.

Scene II.

Alice, Meg and Nannetta await the return of Dame Quickly, who announces the coming of Falstaff. Nannetta is in tears, for her father says that she must marry Dr. Caius. Alice reassures her, and orders the servants to bring in a big linen-basket and to return when she calls them. Falstaff arrives and makes love to her, Alice playing up to him with mock gravity. They are interrupted by the (arranged) arrival of Dame Quickly and Meg, who, amid their laughter excitedly tell of the coming of Ford, determined to "skin Falstaff alive." Falstaff is hidden behind a screen. Ford, followed by the others, rushes in, accusing Alice of faithlessness, and looking for Falstaff. They rush out again. Falstaff is bundled into the linen-basket, whilst Nannetta and Fenton hide behind the screen, and Alice makes her escape. Ford with Dr. Caius followed by the other men and the servants again rush in, imagining that Alice is with Falstaff behind the screen. A kiss is heard and they tear the screen down, only to find the two lovers. Ford, in a rage, tells Fenton that he shall never marry his daughter. A cry from Bardolph—"He's there on the staircase," and they all rush out again. Alice returns, calling the neighbours and then her husband to witness Falstaff being tumbled in the basket through the window into the Thames.

ACT. III.—Scene 1.

Falstaff sits disconsolately outside the "Garter," bewailing his fate. Dame Quickly enters with a letter from Alice. He angrily refuses to have anything further to do with her until assured by Dame Quickly that Alice still "loves" him, and that the episode of the linen-basket was the fault of the servants. He reads the letter in which Alice asks him to disguise himself as the "Sable Huntsman" and meet her at midnight by Herne's Oak in Windsor Park. Falstaff's assent to the proposed meeting is overheard by Alice, Ford and the others, who arrange to go to Windsor Park disguised as fairies, witches, etc., where they will set upon and beat Falstaff. Quickly then overhears Ford promising his daughter to Dr. Caius. (In the next scene it is arranged that Bardolph shall personate Nannetta in order to thwart the two men). The scene ends with the women characters arranging the details of the disguises—Nannetta is to be the "Queen of the Fairies," Meg the "Nymph of the Woodland," Dame Quickly an Enchantress, etc., etc.

Scene II.

Fenton enters, singing a love song, awaiting the coming of Nannetta. Alice, Meg and Quickly follow Nannetta, and Fenton is disguised. Falstaff, with a large pair of antlers on his head, enters as a distant bell strikes midnight. Soon Alice is with him and he again protests his love for her. The scene is interrupted by the arrival of Meg telling them that the witches are coming. The fairies arrive, led by Nannetta. They dance and sing round Falstaff. Bardolph stumbles over Falstaff, who is lying on the ground in fear of the "spirits of darkness." All the characters enter, accompanied by men with lanterns, and in a scene of pandemonium, Falstaff is rolled over on the ground and beaten. He begs for mercy and is forgiven by Ford. All the stupidity of his behaviour is gradually brought home to him as each character is revealed. Ford then arranges the betrothal of his daughter to Caius. When the disguises are thrown away, however, it is discovered that Bardolph is with Caius and Nannetta with Fenton. Ford is laughed at heartily. He forgives Fenton, happiness is restored all round and the opera ends with "a rousing lay to end the frolic," to wit, the famous ten-part fugue which brings the curtain down on a scene of the greatest hilarity and good temper.

III. CAROL—"Of a rose I sing" *Arnold Bax
Accompaniment for Harp, 'Cello, and Contrabass.

Harp: NAOMI HARBEN. 'Cello: KATHLEEN JACOBS. Contrabass: DORIS GREENISH.

Of a rose, a lovely rose,
And of a rose I sing a song!
Hearken to me both old and young,
How a rose began to spring,
A fairer rose to my liking
Sprung there never in kinges land.

Six branches are on that rose-beam,
They be both bright and sheen,
The rose is called Mary, heaven queen,
Of her bosom a blossom sprung.

The first branch was of great might,
That sprung on Christmas night,
The star shone over Bethlehem bright,
That men might see both broad and long.

The second branch was of great honour,
It was sent from heaven tower,
Blessed be that fair flower,
Break it shall the fiendes bonds.

The third branch wide spread,
There Mary lay in her bed.
The bright stream three kings led
To Bethlem, there that branch they found.

The fourth branch sprung into hell!
The fiendes boast for to fell,
There might no soul therein dwell,
Blessed be that time that branch gan spring

The fifth branch was fair in foot,
That sprang to heaven top and root,
There to dwell and be our bote,
And yet is seen in priestes hands.

The sixth branch by and by,
It is the five joys of mild Mary.
Now Christ save all this company,
And send us good life and long!
Amen! Amen!

INTERVAL OF FIVE MINUTES.

IV. THREE HYMNS for Female Voices from the "Rig Veda," Op. 26, Second Group ... Gustav Holst
Accompaniment for Violins and Pianoforte.

No. 1.—"TO VARUNA" (God of the Waters).

O Varuna, we offer up to thee a song
To bring thee earthward unto us.
O thou, the Ancient One,
The Mighty, the Holy, laden with treasure of sacrifice,
Descend to us.
But now having entered unto his presence, his face
Doth scorch as with flames of angry fire.

O Varuna, if we have sinned against thee,
Yet we are thine own.
Give shelter to those that bring thee praise.
Hast thou forgotten
How in the days gone by
With thee, O Varuna,
Fearlessly walked we,
Into thy mansion, lofty and shining,
Built with a thousand doors,
Freely we entered.

Then in thy boat we embarked with thee, Varuna,
Forth did we wend o'er the path of the ocean,
Over the surface of billowy waters,
Swaying so gently,
Gliding so smoothly.

Yea, in those happy days
Thou did'st inspire us,
Gavest us wisdom,
Mad'st us thy singers.

Ah! in those happy days
Broad were the heav'ns,
Long were the days.
O Varuna, if we have sinned against thee,
Yet we are thine own.
Give shelter to those that bring thee praise.

No. 2.—"TO AGNI" (God of Fire).

Burn up our sin, fierce flaming Agni,
Thou with thy face that shineth brightly,
Flame for us, O Agni!
Grant unto those that call upon thee,
That we may live on in our children,
Praising thee for ever.

Flame for us, O Agni!

Thy glowing tongues of flame leap upward,
Reaching the heavens,
Ever victorious.
Thy face doth gleam on ev'ry side.
Thou art triumphant ev'ry-where.
Over the raging sea of foemen
As in a boat, O bear us onward,
Flame for, us O Agni!

No. 3.—FUNERAL CHANT.

To those for whom the meath is poured,
For whom the holy wine doth flow,
May he go forth!

Yea, unto them whose fiery zeal
Hath burned a path to paradise,
May he go forth!

To those the heroes of the fight,
Whose lives were giv'n as sacrifice,
May he go forth!

Unto the faithful of the Law,
Whose joy doth yield increase of truth,
May he go forth!

To those whose souls are born of fire,
The poets of a thousand songs,
The Holy Ones who guard the Sun, unto the Fathers,

May he go forth!

(a) "TRYSTE NOEL."

The Ox he op'neth wide the Doore,
And from the Snowe he calls her inne;
And he hath seen her smile therefor,
Our Ladye without sinne.
Now soone from sleepe
A starre shall lepe,
And soone arrive both King and Hind.

Amen, Amen.
But O the place could I but finde,
The place could I but finde.

The Ox hath hush'd his voice, and bent
Trew eye of pity o'er the Mow,
And on his lovelier neck fore-spent,
The Blessed lays her Browe.
Around her feet
Full warm and sweete,
His bowerie breath doth meekly dwell.

Amen, Amen.
But sore am I with vain travel,
Sore with vain travel.

The Ox is host in Juda's stall,
And host of more than only one,
For close she gathereth withal,
Our Lord, her lyttel Sonne.
Glad Hind and King
Their gifts may bring,
But would to-night my teares were there,
Amen,
Between her bosom and His Hayre.

(b) "SALVE JESUS" (DUET).

Salve Jesus, little Lad,
Smile, little Sir, and make us glad.
Flageolet, Bagpipe, and Hautbois,
Nascitur Jesus Christ pro nobis.

Shepherd he blew his frozen fingers,
When there he heard a noise of singers.
Gloria, Gloria, Gloria,
In the height.

Shepherd is off to Bethlem stable.
Merrilie, merrilie, he is so able.
Between the downs and sky.

Mother she watched her Babe in Manger,
Talbot he barked, he thought it danger,
Omnibus Pax, say I.

Mary she took her tiny Baby,
Lifted Him up as soft as maybe.
Domini Filium.

Shepherd his speech he so did make it
As "Hail, little Sir," that is I take it,
Redentor Omnium.

Shepherd is off, his small lambs call so,
Farewell, Joseph and Mary also,
Et Rosa Mundi Tu.

(c) "THE HOLLY AND THE IVY."

The Holly and the Ivy
When they are both full grown;
Of all the trees that are in the wood
The Holly bears the crown.

Chorus: O the rising of the sun,
And the running of the deer,
The playing of the merry organ,
Sweet singing in the choir.

The Holly bears a blossom
As white as any flower;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ
To be our sweet Saviour.

Chorus.

The Holly bears a berry
As red as any blood;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ
To do poor sinners good.

Chorus.

The Holly bears a prickle
As sharp as any thorn;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ
On Christmas day in the morn.

Chorus.

The Holly bears a bark
As bitter as any gall;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ.
For to redeem us all.

Chorus.

(d) "ON CHRISTMAS NIGHT."

On Christmas night all Christians sing,
To hear the news the angels bring;
News of great joy, news of great mirth,
News of our merciful King's birth.

When sin departs before Thy grace,
Then life and health come in its place;
Angels and men with joy may sing,
All for to see the new-born King.

All out of darknes; we have light,
Which made the angels sing this night;
"Glory to God and peace to men,
Now and for evermore. Amen."

VI. MOTET for DOUBLE CHOIR—"Mater ora filium" Arnold Bax*

Mater ora filium
Ut post hoc exilium
Nobis donet gaudium
Beatorum omnium.
Amen.

Fair Maiden, who is this bairn
That thou bearest in thine arm.
Sir, it is a Kinges son
That in Heaven doth wone.
Mater ora filium, etc.

Fair maiden,
Pray for us unto thy Son, sweet Jesus,
That He may send us of His grace,
In heav'n on high to have a place.
Mater ora filium, etc.

Man to father He had none
But Himself God alone,
Of a maiden He would be born
To save mankind that was forlorn.
Mater ora filium, etc.
The Kings brought Him presents,
Gold, myrrh, and frankincense.
To my Son full of might.
King of kings, and Lord of Right. Alleluia.
Mater ora filium, etc.

(c) "NOËL."

On a winter's night long time ago
(The bells ring loud and the bells ring low),
When high howled wind and down fell snow
(Carillon, Carilla).

St. Joseph he and Nostre Dame,
Riding on an ass full weary came
From Nazareth into Bethlehem.
And the small Child Jesus smile on you.

And Bethlehem inn they stood before
(The bells ring less and the bells ring more),
The landlord bade them begone from his door
(Carillon, Carilla).

"Poor folk" (says he) "must lie where they may,
For the Duke of Jewry comes this way,
With all his train on a Christmas day"
(Carillon, Carilla).

Poor folk that may my Carol hear
(The bells ring single and the bells ring clear),
See! God's one Child had hardest cheer!
(Carillon, Carilla).

Men grown hard on a Christmas morn;
The dumb beast by and a Babe forlorn.
It was very, very cold when our Lord was born.
And the small Child Jesus smile on you.

Now these were Jews, as Jews must be
(The bells ring merry and the bells ring free),
But Christian men in a band are we (Carillon, Carilla).

Empty we go, and ill bedight,
Singing Noël on a winter's night.
Give us to sup by the warm firelight,
And the small Child Jesus smile on you.
